Choosing where you work

Where operationally possible, workers are able to choose to go to the office, work a hybrid approach or work entirely from home.

The company has not responded to several letters from the FSU or has not indicated that workers can apply to work wholly from home.

Needs improvement. The policy or practice for applying to work wholly from home is not clear and needs to be further developed or clarified.

The business provides full flexibility for staff to choose where they work or the ability to request to work wholly from home.
